THE St. Louis Republic says the solid South is a positive injury to the Democratic party.

At present we have plenty of elbow room in this country, without the addition of either Canada or Mexico.

MR. H. Z. OSBORNE of the Evening Express, who has been absent in Washington since before the inauguration of President Harrison, is expected home today.

CHILI is an enterprising little country. It is about to expend $2,000,000 in the erection of lighthouses along the coast, in addition to which the sum of $500,000 is to be used to promote immigration.

INTELLIGENCE and sound sense are not always allied to thrones. It is said that the Czar is a believer in astrology, and is greatly depressed because the "stars" foretell his death within a year. It is pitiable. The Russian emperor, it is said, is the slave of foolish superstition.

WHEN Washington took the oath of office he was made President of about 3,800,000 people. A hundred years later and Benjamin Harrison is made President of the same country, with a population of 65,000,000. What marvelous changes do the American people discern in looking backward!

OFFICE-SEEKING is evidently not going to prove a profitable employment under this Administration. That the office-seeker will win what he desires is about as certain as that the flea-hunter will lay his hand upon the agile insect whose small sting attacks him with a business alacrity that is worthy of a better cause.

BOSTON'S new license law, which went into effect May 1st, limits the number of saloons to 780 in that city. This wipes out about 1500 saloons and drinking places, most of which were doggeries, where the loafer lounged and drank himself into a condition of imbecility, and where brawls and brutality were nurtured. The morality of Boston will doubtless be largely improved and emphasized by this legal enactment.

CIVILIZATION is putting its foot upon the hoary old head of superstition and heathenism in India, and that country is now being rapidly Englishized, especially the rising generation of its native people. Over two millions of youth in that land are now studying the English language, and with the literature of that tongue thrown open to them what a change must gradually take place in their general ideas and beliefs. The schoolmaster is a great civilizer.

THE San Francisco Bulletin has the following in reference to the Southern California exhibition at the State Board of Trade rooms:

When the Los Angeles boom was at its height, while town lots in the southern counties were thicker than mosquitoes in a Berkeley cañon, all efforts to secure the affiliation with the State Board of Trade of the Los Angeles Board of Trade were unavailing. Times have changed now, and Los Angeles has just set up in the Market-street rooms of the State Board a display of all the county may show to attract home-seekers. Here are exhibited wines, oranges and lemons, dried prunes, apricots and various fruits, raisins, nuts and choice samples of cereals. The products all look well, and attract much attention from visitors.

ALL of the foreign ministers are likely to be removed, if they do not resign, when the party in power changes. But the consuls do not all go out. There are several men who have been in the foreign service for twenty-five years, and a dozen or so who have held their places for twelve years. The consular clerks are seldom changed, and the vice and deputy consuls hold on pretty well. There are about two hundred places in the consular service, and the belief now is that not more than one hundred and forty or fifty new appointments will be made. For these places there are about four thousand applicants; so it seems that something like three thousand eight hundred and fifty persons will be more or less disappointed, if they expect to get the positions for which they have asked.

A NEW PUBLIC PRINTER.

Gen. Frank W. Palmer, whose appointment to the office of Public Printer is announced from Washington today, is a man of large and long experience in public affairs. He served in the Union army during the war of the rebellion; afterwards represented the Des Moines district of Iowa in Congress; was editor for many years of the Des Moines Register, the principal State Republican paper, now owned by the Clarksons; subsequently removed to Chicago, where he was editor of the Inter Ocean, and later was appointed postmaster, in which office he served for one term and part of another, being turned out by Mr. Cleveland. Latterly he has conducted a trade journal in the same city. He is a practical printer, a strong Republican, is reported to be a man of ample executive ability, and has successfully handled large bodies of men, having at one time been State Printer of Iowa. He was not an applicant for the office with which he has just been honored by the President, and there is every reason to believe that the selection will prove a good one.

Gen. Palmer's family spent the winter in Los Angeles and vicinity three years ago, for the benefit of Mrs. Palmer's health; and the General and his old business associate and cashier, Mr. E. B. Upham, at that time contemplated an important newspaper venture in this city, but procrastination on the part of an agent lost them their opportunity, and they never embarked in the undertaking.

Palmer first came to the front for Public Printer only a few weeks ago, through the intervention of friends in his own State and elsewhere, and from the outset his appointment has been practically assured. From all accounts the appointment was made none too soon, as the condition of affairs in the public "printery" is and has been bad. The following Washington dispatch, sent out a few days since, outlines the situation:

So much that is reprehensible has been brought to light at the Government Printing Office in connection with the purchase of supplies and the employment and discharge of employees that President Harrison expected to place a Republican at the head of that institution within a very few days. It amazes the Republicans that Benedict is permitted to stay in the position a day longer.

IMMIGRATION TO THE COAST.

West-bound travel on the Central and Southern overland routes is very light at present. Most of the travel now coming to the Pacific Coast is directed towards the Northwest. This is explained by the statement that the spring-time is not the season for California travel. Why this should be it is hard to say. It is difficult to see why thousands of settlers should not be pouring into the fertile valleys of the State at this season of the year. A constant stream of settlers has been and is still pouring into Washington and Oregon. But Southern California has been extensively written up in the Eastern papers as no place for a poor man.

One of the reasons for the heavy travel to the Northwest is the persistent and effective advertising of all sections of Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho by the Northern Pacific. The Western and Eastern States have been flooded with literature descriptive of these sections. The Northern Pacific has spared no expense in distributing land plats, maps of all kinds, pamphlets and attractive folders by the million, in which the cheapness of the lands was specially emphasized.

There is a lesson in this for Southern California. If we want immigrants we must advertise. It is not enough to sit down in the consciousness that we have advertised in the past. We must keep it up. When a merchant stops advertising, his business begins to run down, especially, if at about the same time, reports are widely circulated by his envious rivals that his goods are too high-priced. That is what is the matter with us. We must remove the impression which has gone abroad that Southern California is no place for a poor man, and show that we have, in this section, land at prices and on terms within the reach of all land, moreover, which will pay a greater interest on its cost than can be earned by a similar investment in any portion of the globe.

BASIS OF CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATION.

The time will soon be here for the taking of the new national census, upon which count the ratio of representation in Congress will be based. The Constitution established for the States the proportion of one representative in the popular branch of Congress for every 30,000 of their population. After each census since then, with but a single exception, the basis has been increased. The proportion, based on the census of 1880, which of course is that which still governs, is approximately one member for each 152,000 inhabitants.

Notwithstanding the expansion in the ratio of representation, the size of the House of Representatives has been steadily growing. Some of this increase, of course, came from the additions to the list of States, but a large part of it has resulted from the fact that the increase in the ratio of representation has not kept pace with the gain in population. When North Carolina and Rhode Island ratified the Constitution soon after Washington's inauguration and increased the list of States to thirteen, the number of members of the House was sixty-five. Between 1873, when the apportionment based on the census of 1870 went into effect, and 1883, the number was 292, except in the latter part of the decade, when Colorado's admission added one member to the list. In 1883 the House membership was increased to 325, which is the present number.

Should the present basis of representation be retained, the States would have about 430 members in the House ten years hence, or, including new States, 450 members. This is, however, not likely to happen. The basis of representation will in all probability be enlarged, so as to keep the number of members in the House below 400.

The appointment of a Public Printer was protracted so long that it had come to assume a consequence in the eyes of the public which really does not attach to the office, important though it is. On this coast more interest has been taken in the subject from the fact that there was a local candidate in the field—Mr. Osborne of Los Angeles—a fact which frequent dispatches, sent out from the National Capital, where the candidate in question has been pressing his suit, have not permitted the public to forget. The office of Public Printer is one which is of little importance to the people of this coast. On the other hand, the appointment of ministers and consuls to the Pacific islands, the Pacific States of Central and South America and to the countries of the Orient, is of material consequence to us. It is for this reason that THE TIMES has maintained that our representatives in Congress should be urged to secure for us, if possible, more of the latter class of appointments in preference to "going after" offices in which our people are not specially interested. The trade of the countries which we have named is of so much importance to California and the Pacific Slope that we have good right to specially strong representation in that direction in the matter of consulates and ministries. This representation granted, we could not fairly ask many important national offices of other classes.

PACIFIC COAST.

The Visiting Senators at San Francisco.

Programme of Their Investigation on the Coast.

The Cruiser Charleston Starts on Her First Voyage.

A Legal Quibble by Which a Score of Mongols May Escape Punishment for Illegal Mining—Coast Notes.

By Telegram to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] A special train arrived here this afternoon bringing the members of the Senate investigation committee on relations with Canada. The party includes George F. Hoar of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee; William B. Allison of Iowa; Eugene Hale of Maine; Joseph N. Dolph of Oregon and James L. Fugate of Alabama. The two other members, Senator Butler of South Carolina and Senator Voorhees of Indiana, were not in the party, and it is doubtful if they will come out here during the visit of the committee. Charles B. Reade, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, stenographer John, Mrs. Hoar, Mrs. Hale and several others complete the number. The party was met by Senator Stanford, A. N. Towne and other representatives of the Southern Pacific Company and was taken to the Palace Hotel. They express themselves as highly pleased with their trip and with the prospects of a week's stay in California.

The committee will hold a series of meetings here, and will make diligent inquiry on the subject in hand, especially as to the degree in which the traffic of American lines is affected by those of Canada. At the close of the inquiry here the committee will go to Portland and Tacoma to continue their investigations.

THE CHARLESTON.

The New Cruiser Starts for Santa Barbara.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] At 5 o'clock this morning the cruiser Charleston started on her trial trip. She steamed down the bay at the rate of eleven knots, and at 9:15 passed through the Golden Gate. She is commanded by Capt. Charles Goodall, Jr., of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company. The Charleston will proceed direct to Santa Barbara channel, and a thorough test will be made. On her arrival she will be given time to be prepared for the test, which will be a severe one. On board the Charleston are officers and men, a naval band, consisting of Commodore, Benham, Capt. Glass, Naval Constructor James Feaster, Chief Engineer Harris, Smith and Wilson, ten assistant engineers, Associated Press representatives, G. M. Gunn, G. W. Dickey and Robert Forsythe of the Union Iron Works, and W. R. Eckart, mechanical engineer.

No special time has been set for the trial trip, which will probably be decided on her arrival at the destination. If the first trip is unsatisfactory, another will follow.

A QUIBBLE.

How a Clerical Error May Defeat Justice.

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] Writs of habeas corpus in the cases of 20 Chinamen arrested at the Omega hydraulic mine near Emigrant Gap last April, were made returnable this afternoon before the Supreme Court in this city. District Attorney Forbes appeared for Yuba, and Attorney Stone of Stockton, for the prisoners. The original complaint reads:

"In the Supreme Court of the county of Yuba, and the main reliance of the defense was upon the use of the word 'Superior,' where 'Superior' should have been used. Stone argued that the proceedings were illegal, as the statutes insist upon a correct statement of the title of the court and of the action.

Chief Justice Beatty referred to the claim of Stone as mere quibbling, since the proper name of the Yuba court appeared upon the cover of the complaint. Justice Work and Patterson differed from this view. Forbes asked for five days to file a brief, and the request was granted.

IN SELF-DEFENSE.

A Big Rancher Killed While Assaulting a Small Man.

ORLAND, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] A justifiable homicide occurred on the Glenn ranch, at what is known as Haley's place, two miles west of Jacinto, yesterday forenoon. A big fellow named C. W. Stroppe, employed on the place, had been drinking, and picked on a blacksmith of the ranch, Albert Gittner, a small man, and whom he had twice whipped for no apparent reason. Stroppe for the third time attacked Gittner in the shop, who defended him off and backed toward his sleeping room. Stroppe had hold of his throat. Gittner got a butcher knife with which he shot Stroppe, the ball entering the right cheek, passing through the head and causing instant death. Coroner Dupcan held an inquest last evening and facts as above stated were developed. Stroppe was a native of Ohio, and 35 years old. Gittner was late of San Francisco.

The New Overland Time Table.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—The new overland time table from here to the East will go into effect as announced on Sunday next. As now arranged, the fast 6:30 p.m. express train will reach Council Bluffs at 9 p.m. on the third day, permitting close connections to be made only with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, whose train for Chicago will leave at 9:30. The Chicago train of the other low lines all leave earlier at present, but it is thought very probable that they will make a change in order to connect with the trains of the new Union Pacific card. Chicago will be reached by the St. Paul train at 2:15 p.m. the day following.

Notaries Appointed.

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—The Governor has appointed George P. Burke, I. J. Wrampelmeir, A. C. Mousser and H. H. Himebaugh notaries public for San Diego.

THE WAYS OF A "MAC."

How He Drove His Wife Into a Life of Shame.

Hardly a day passes without some new example of the utter degradation to which a man will sink under the influence of the infamous "mac" system, the latest exposure occurring yesterday. Between 1 and 2 o'clock a couple of women came to the police station to see the Chief. One was a rather young girl, with reddish hair and pleasing features, who first came into public notice some time ago by suing her stepfather for her mother's effects after the latter's death, at which time she made some rather serious charges against the man. The matter was taken in hand by Mrs. Watson, and nothing more has since been heard of the girl.

The other woman was somewhat older and was very modest and refined in her manner, showing no signs of what she afterward proved to be. She said that her name was Mrs. Harris, and she wanted to swear out a complaint against her husband for assault. She then told a story that for cold-blooded brutality is one of the worst yet. She said that she had not been married to Harris long before he told her that she would have to enter upon a life of prostitution. She at first refused, but finally she was beaten into it, and her spirit so broken that she did not have the courage to refuse. She went into a place at No. 114 Alameda street, where she piled the calling of a common harlot. In the meantime, Harris was doing nothing, taking life easy, and when she went to her room he would be there to receive the wages of her shame. She turned over to him every cent that she gained, leaving herself penniless, and frequently going without the ordinary necessities of life to increase the amount, for when she did not give him as much money as he thought she should she would be beaten worse than a slave.

By threats he managed to keep her from making her condition known, and the miserable life she had been leading might have continued indefinitely but for a discovery that roused the last spark of womanhood in her and gave her courage to break the chains that bound her. For some weeks past she noticed that Harris was getting more exacting in his demands. He was constantly after her for more money, and her very existence was a burden to her. It was one continual round of abuse and ill treatment, and she was in constant fear of her life. She finally began to investigate, and found that Harris had become infatuated with another woman in the town, who had rooms at the corner of Los Angeles and Commercial streets, and the money she earned by her disgraceful calling was taken by him and lavished with a free hand on her sister in sin. This was the straw that broke the camel's back, and she wanted him put where he could not molest her. The woman was considerably affected during the recital of her story, and when she had concluded the younger one remarked that she knew just how it was, as she had passed through pretty much the same experience herself.

Chief Burns then sent the women upstairs to the Police Judge, where, after waiting two or three hours, they were given a complaint, charging Harris with vagrancy. This was given to Officer Hoff, and about 6 o'clock last evening Harris was arrested at the corner of Los Angeles and Commercial streets and brought to the police station, where he was locked up without bail.

Several of the police officers say that Harris' case is not an exceptional one, but that there are quite a number of men in the city who are guilty of the same thing. Chief Burns says that wherever he can get a case against one of them he proposes to push it to the full limit of the law, and that there will be no let-up until they get out of town.

ARID LANDS.

STANFORD AND STEWART TALK IRRIGATION.

They Think Congress Will Vote Money Enough to Carry Out the Biggest Irrigation Scheme Ever Known.

By Telegram to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the State Board of Trade today, Senator Stanford, Senator Stewart of Nevada, ex-Gov. Perkins, Congressman Morrow and other prominent men were present. The subject of the reclamation of arid lands in the western portion of the United States was discussed.

Senator Stanford said the importance of the arid land project cannot be overestimated. The region extends from Mexico to British Columbia, with a width of 1500 miles. The heads of this district should receive his aid when it comes before Congress. He knew of the possibilities for storage reservoirs, similar to the one near San Diego.

Continuing, the Senator said: "These lands are now useless for settlement by poor men. Only when irrigated by capital can they be used for agriculture and furnish homes for millions of people. The work is a great one, and worth the expenditure of millions of money. The people east do not understand that this land is valueless without water."

Senator Stewart said that surveys should be carried out first. Four million dollars could be used in that manner. The appropriation of $250,000 will be used only at initial points, where topographical surveys have already been made. The people east know very little of the value of irrigation. Two-thirds of the agriculture of the world is carried on by irrigation. The reclamation of arid lands is less work than the cultivation of timber lands. In these there will be the only lands to be secured. Irrigated regions, well cultivated, will support and require a larger population than unirrigated districts. California, in the Senator's judgment, is capable of supporting 40,000,000 people. There must be an adjustment and regulation of the irrigation laws. The irrigation decision regarding the appropriation of river water in this State was absurd.

The Senator then explained the irrigation system in India. The cost of reclaiming by irrigation would be about $10 an acre, and the fertility and possibilities amount to double that of unirrigated land. With proper drainage, irrigation is as healthy as rainfall.

Congressman Morrow and Col. John P. Irish also spoke on the subject.

Senator Stewart assured those present that the Senate Committee would accomplish that which in time would surprise the whole world in the matter of irrigation.

Insane.

Two cranks were examined before Judge Van Dyke yesterday. John McMann, recently from Arizona, was very crazy, and a commitment was granted in his case for Stockton. He believes that the Lord holds animated conversations with him, and on more than one occasion has advised him to commit divers and sundry acts of a scandalous nature.

The other case was of a different character. Charles Carlson, the patient, is of a moody turn, and vouchsafed no replies to the questions put to him. The commissioners were not convinced that he is insane, and will examine him again on Friday morning.

Pleasant Surprise Party.

Col. R. S. Baker was given a surprise party by his friends last night at his rooms in the Baker block. Among other present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Col. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, the Misses Winston, the Misses Miles, Mr. Miles, Miss Estudillo, the Misses Johnston, Mr. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Urquiza, Mr. Collis, Miss Rita Collis, Mr. J. H. Brenner, Mr. M. S. Arvalo, Mr. Albert M. Hawthorne, Mr. James Winston.

THE RAILWAYS.

Depew's Defense of Pools and Combines.

He Thinks the Interstate Act Rains on Small Roads.

A Plea for the Legalizing of the Pooling System.

The Interstate Commerce Commission Investigates the Practice of Paying Bonuses to Ticket Agents.

By Telegram to The Times.

NEW YORK, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] The Senate committee investigating the working of the interstate commerce law resumed its labors this morning.

Chauncey M. Depew of the New York Central was the first witness. He gave his opinion of the working of the interstate law, and to a question as to what amendments he could suggest to protect American roads, he said that roads doing business in this country, whether Mexican or Canadian, should be made to comply with the conditions of the law, the same as American roads are. At present it is very easy for Canadian roads to get large quantities of freight by means of rebates. "Pooling" he considered a very good thing, and it should have been permitted. The tendency of all roads is to lower freight rates, and no amount of "pooling" could affect this tendency. The interstate commerce bill, by making roads publish their rates, had given the stronger roads more business and taken it away from the weaker roads proportionately. The interstate law will never be effective nor a benefit until in some form or other you have legalized pooling.

Senator Platt: Don't you think it would have been better if goods destined to points within the United States' borders never had been allowed to go through Canada? Depew: If you go back to that, yes; but the thing is now an existing fact. During the discussion on the merits of "pooling," Senator Harris asked whether the $300,000, testified by President King as the annual share of the Erie road, was not "writ down from the pockets of the shippers."

"I do not understand it in that way," replied Depew. "Erie could not get the rates out of pool for instance, and therefore it is a question whether we should pay it a satisfactory amount to maintain rates or be plunged in a ruinous war."

Depew was followed by General Manager Hixson of the Erie Road. He described the road and its terminals and after some questioning finally acknowledged that the Grand Trunk practically controlled rates between Chicago and Portland. Their business in the United States, witness said, was carried on in accordance with the spirit of the interstate law and they made no increase in local rates to recoup on possible losses on longer hauls.

Chairman Cullom asked: "Suppose we made it obligatory for the Canadian roads to obey the interstate law?"

"I think that would be an international question," replied Hixson.

The last witness of the day was First Vice-president Nelson of the Erie road. His discourse was largely explanatory of the Erie's methods, and its losses since the establishment of the pool. In his opinion a legalized pool under the control of the interstate commission would be an excellent thing both for shippers and railroads.

THE COMMISSION QUESTION.

Railway Men Given a Hearing on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—[By the Associated Press.] The public room of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in which hearings are held, presented an animated appearance this morning, due to the presence of a large number of railroad men, who came to Washington as representatives of the roads, pursuant to an order of the commission issued the 15th of April, requiring the presence of representatives of twenty-six carriers, most of them western roads, to set forth what commission each of them pays upon the sale of passenger tickets, and to whom, and how this business is conducted. Several of the roads had filed answers with the commission, but a majority answered through their accredited representatives. The general trend of the testimony was that the roads were paying commissions in accordance with rates established by the Western Passenger Agents' Association, and that the roads were acting under this agreement, which was generally faithfully observed, to the betterment of the service. Several railroad representatives in their testimony declared that no demoralization existed on account of commission-paying, and none was anticipated.

General Traffic Manager Clarke of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha road, said he regarded the effect of the agreement between the various passenger associations west of Chicago regarding commission as the great improvement over the demoralized condition of business previous to the agreement. The money made by the commission agents had been considerably reduced owing to the stoppage of payment of commissions by many of the eastern trunk lines. The commissions paid last year by his company amounted to more than $200,000.

General Passenger Agent Fugle of the Michigan Central said his company pays no commissions nor does it allow its agents to do so. He said that the business of emigrant business, and some Pacific Coast business.

General Passenger Agent Ford of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh said his company had paid no commissions since the passage of the interstate law.

The answer of the Chicago and Alton roads, which was made by the business of that company. It also contained a number of charges against the improper use of mileage tickets, etc.

Receiver McNulta of the Wabash entered a general denial of the charges, and General Manager Chappell of the Alton testified in rebuttal of McNulta's statement.

General Passenger Agent Daniels of the New York Central gave it as his opinion that the payment of commission on the sale of tickets frequently results in the cutting of rates. Several other eastern general passenger agents were examined, among whom the opinion seemed to prevail that the business of emigrant business, and some Pacific Coast business, and was injurious to railway management.

M. HILTON WILLIAMS,
M. D., M. C. P. S. O.

Office, Hollenbeck Block, corner Second and Spring streets, Los Angeles, Cal.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved medical inhalations and the Compound Oxygen treatment, which has such a world-wide reputation in lung and nervous affections.

We take pleasure in announcing to the public that we combine the Compound Oxygen treatment with our system of practice in the cure of asthma, bronchitis, consumption, dyspepsia, indigestion, sore throat, catarrh, rheumatism and nervous prostration.

The testimonials given below are very fair samples as to the time required for effecting cures in these troublesome cases.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14, 1888.
This is to certify that I had been afflicted with asthma and emphysema of the lungs for about 15 years, and that I had tried almost every known remedy, both here and in the East, but without success. I began the treatment and nearly 1 year ago I feel like another man. I was so bad that for days I could hardly breathe, but I do positively feel that I am cured. The difficulty of breathing has been entirely removed, and I feel as well as I ever did in my life.

Employ City Water Works,
255 Bellevue Avenue, Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Nov. 16, 1888.
It is a source of gratification to me to be able to testify to the very satisfactory cure Dr. M. Hilton Williams has effected in my case with his Compound Oxygen and other inhalations. After suffering several years with catarrh of the head and throat also with bronchitis, which caused a very aggravating cough, I applied to Dr. Williams, who effected an entire cure in just two months from the time I began the treatment. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams as a Christian gentleman and a conscientious and skillful physician, whose cures seem almost marvelous in cases of consumption, asthma, bronchitis and catarrh.

MRS. L. A. THURSTON,
1422 Temple St., Los Angeles, Cal.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.
Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at my office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions.
